

Grady College Research Grant Policy

1. The College and the researcher's home department/unit each receive one third of indirect costs returned to the College. The remaining third will be available for use at the researcher's discretion.

* Uses for these funds might include the purchase of equipment, supplies, or travel.

2. Those researchers unable to take their grant salary support in the form of extra summer pay or a reduced teaching load would have discretion to use these funds for such things as equipment, supplies or travel.

* Unused funds would roll over to the following fiscal year(s) and be available to the researcher.

3. If a researcher elects to take his/her salary support in the form of a reduced teaching load, the cost will equal the current rate established by the College to pay an adjunct professor to replace the researcher for the class buy out.

4. Generally, researchers will be allowed to buy out two courses per year. They may buy out more courses if approved by the Department Head and Dean.

* Expenditure of funds and any roll over funds must comply with UGA and state guidelines.
